REVOLUTIONISTS TO FIGHT

Barricade Weak Spots in Lisbon to Resist Loyal Royal Troops—Royal Family is Fleeing to France—Spain May Help Manuel.

United Press Cablegram.

LONDON, Oct. 6.—A dispatch from San Sebatian today says King Manuel and his mother passe dthrough here this morning on route to France. There are still conflicting reports. One says Manuel was arrested aboard ship while preparing to flee.

The Duke Oporto, uncle of the King, has not been heard from since he directed the royalists who were routed Tuesday morning. It is unknown whether he was captured.

The pretender, Don Miguel, Duke of Braganzen, has also not been heard from. It is possible he may be called to the throne. If he is, an American girl may be Queen as Anita Stewart of New York, as the wife of the pretender's son.

BRADAJOSE, Oct. 6.—Lisbon messages say the revolutionists are fortifying that city's vulnerable points, anticipating an attack by the royalist troops who are reported marching on the capital. The provisional troops demand the restoration of Manuel.

Theophilo Braga, the provisional President, is trying to placate the royalists and prevent a civil war.

It is reported that Madrid is in a turmoil over the announcement that a strong force of veterans in light marching order is hastening to the frontier. Republicans declares Alfonso will help Manuel.

Refuges arriving today say 200 killed and wounded is a conservative estimate of the casualties as a result of the uprising.

LISBON, Oct. 6.—Minister of Justice Costa of the provisional government has officially announced that "the royal family is fleeing from Portugal." He refused to specify further.

"The provisional government guarantees public order and safety," is the telegram President Braga is sending to all the foreign offices throughout the world. It formally announces the proclamation of a republic.

BARCELONA, Spain, Oct. 6.—There were constant clashes today between the police and revolutionary sympathizers. Radical gatherings were dispersed only to gather at another corner.

Madrid has been appealed to for reinforcements of the police force.

LIVERPOOL, Eng., Oct. 6.—The Portugese consul has received a telegram dated this noon stating: "All quiet throughout the capital. Further trouble is not expected. The Republicans are in complete control and the new government of Braga has the situation well in hand."

MADRID, Oct. 6.—It is reported this afternoon that the Republicans have dynamited Necessidades palace and also the King's palace at Santurom.

Rendine was Ticklish and Cuts Himself

Horse play on a South Connellsville car this morning resulted in a painful injury to Joe Rendine, employed at the Humbert tin plate mill. Rendine and a number of others boarded the 7 o'clock car for work at the mill. The car had hardly started before a number of the men started some good natured fun at Rendine's expense. They tickled him, with serious consequences.

At the first poke of a finger Rendine, who was seated in the rear of the car, made a leap backwards. He smashed the glass but not for a few seconds did he realize that he had sustained a painful cut in the small of the back.

The injury was dressed, but Rendine is not working at the mill today. It was necessary to put stitches in the gash.

TYPHOID GERMS INFEST WATERSHED

Of the Company That Supplies Scottdale With Water.

HEALTH OFFICER'S ACTION

Demands That the Water Company Furnish No More Water From Spruce Creek Along Which Several Cases of Typhoid Are Located.

Special to The Courier.

SCOTTDALE, Oct. 6.—Fresh reason for the insistence of the Board of Health that all water for domestic purposes be boiled for half an hour and the need of constant patrol of its watershed was bought out last night. In an inspection of the Spruce Creek watershed from which water of the Citizens Water Company is supplied directly into Scottdale Health Officer F. P. Goshorn found startling conditions yesterday afternoon. He found that there are four cases of typhoid fever along the creek and that there has been no care whatever taken of the discharges from the sick rooms, but that they have been emptied out onto the ground, to naturally drain down into the water that is part of the supply for Scottdale consumption.

The continued dry weather has been helpful in preventing possibly the contamination that would result from this, but with the first rains the germs in the soil will be released and will be washed into the water, in all probability.

Officer Goshorn notified the water company last night to close off any Spruce Creek water coming into Scottdale. The cases have been going on for some time, but seem not to have been reported. There are two cases it is said in one house where Cyrus Shaffer is about recovering from the fever. There are two cases at the home of Henry Clark, Norman Clark, aged 18, and George Clark, aged 7. There is also one other case reported from Shaffer's.

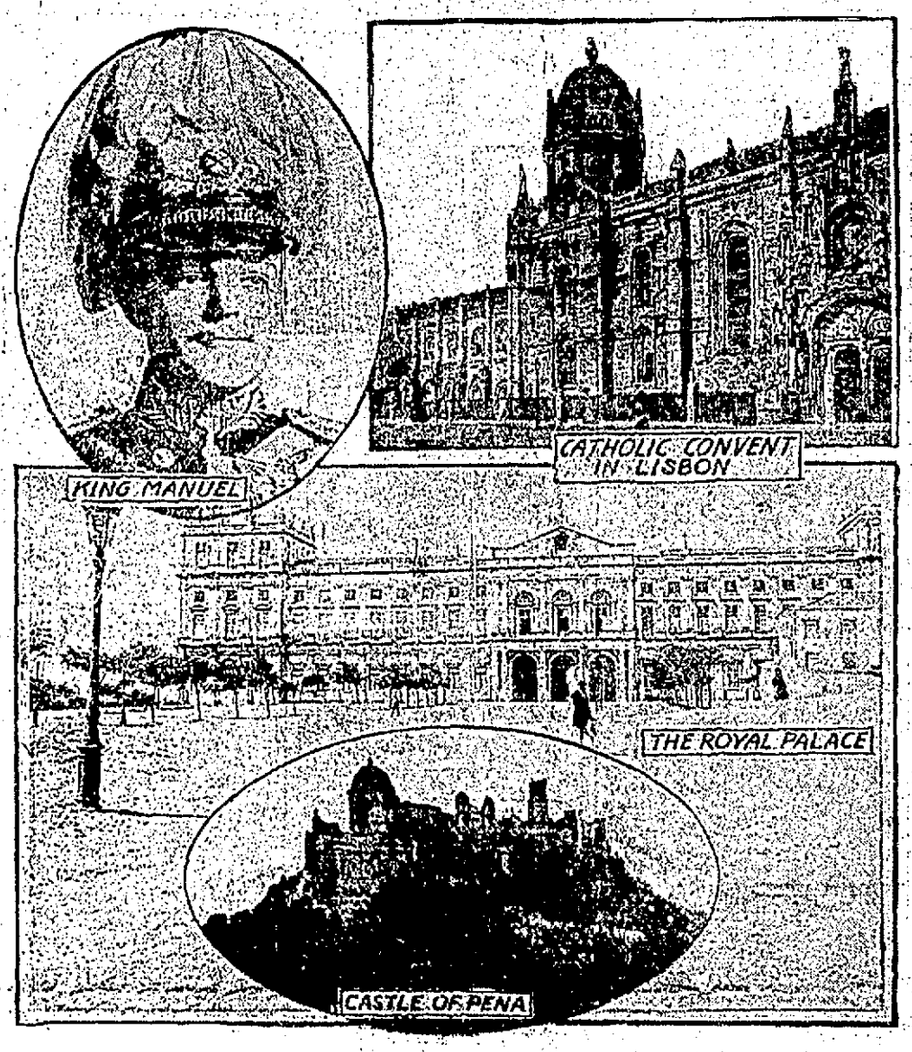

Two members of the Stamm family on Jennings avenue were removed to the Mt. Pleasant hospital yesterday afternoon. They are Mrs. Warholt, who came here from Turtle Creek, and Edward Stamm. Clara Stamm is ill at home, and there have been two other cases.

More Typhoid Cases Develop in the Borough

Two new cases of typhoid fever have been reported to Health Officer Allen Hyatt. One of the victims is Tax Collector H. C. Norton of Carnegie avenue, who has been ill for some days past. The attending physicians diagnosed the case as typhoid this morning.

Another case is reported in a Meadow lane family. This afternoon the two diphtheria patients in the borough were discharged from quarantine by the Health Officer.

A Verdict for Defendant in Damage Case

Special to The Courier.

UNIONTOWN, Oct. 6.—After spending over two days in trying the case of David Queer against the Citizens' Water Company of Scottdale, Judge R. E. Umbel this morning instructed a verdict in favor of the defendant.

Testimony on both sides of the case were heard yesterday afternoon. Defense witnesses thought the damaged sustained to the Queer property when it was flooded by the bursting of the Greenlick dam, July 10, 1904, amounted to from $200 to $400.

The defense rested at 4.30 and asked for binding instructions on certain points of law. Adjournment was taken until this morning when the points were argued before Judge Umbel in the small court room, following which the jury was instructed as follows: "When the defendant has employed a competent and skilled independent contractor to do certain work, the employer is not liable for faulty construction."

The jury was discharged. It is said that the company will probably pay Queer the amount their own witnesses said he has lost.

This is the last of several suits growing out of the flood, all of which have been settled without going to trial.

ACTUAL TRANSFERS

It Is Said Will Soon Take Place on the West Side.

There is a report in circulation today that the agents of the Western Maryland have been quietly advising property owners who have given options to get the deeds prepared and it is expected that the next few days will see the actual transfer take place and purchase money paid.

For the past week agents for the company have been kept busy at Uniontown scanning the records of property under option in order that the deals may be closed without a hitch.

MURDEROUS 'RUN KILLED BY OFFICER

Enoch Pratt and Constable Parker in Battle at Royal Works.

PRATT WILL LIKELY DIE

From Stab Wounds He Received Before He Shot Foreigner—Latter Was Abusing Women With Whom He Lived When Officer Interfered.

Special to The Courier.

UNIONTOWN, Oct. 6.—While attempting to quell a disturbance between three foreigners at Royal yesterday afternoon, Constable E. C. Pratt shot and killed Teso Klesar, but not until he himself had been severely slashed. Pratt was hurried to the Uniontown hospital where he is said to be in a serious condition, and little hopes are entertained for his recovery.

Teso Klesar, the dead man, had been quarreling with the woman with whom he has lived during the past three years. It is said she had only just learned that he had a wife in the old country, though he represented to her when they first met that he was single. Since they began housekeeping, two children have been born, and when she learned the truth yesterday morning she asked for an accounting.

During the argument Teso was attempting to administer a beating to the woman when Steve Vizmar and Jefro Malatick, two boarders, came to her rescue. A fight ensued, which caused Constables E. C. Pratt and James Parker to be summoned. On arriving at the scene, Teso, who appeared to be the chief disturber, was searched. No weapons were found, and they were about to leave, when the foreigner suddenly drew a good sized knife from beneath his shirt. Before Pratt could protect himself, the dirk had been plunged into his back twice. As the constable turned he was stabbed three more times in the abdomen, and sank to the floor.

Constable Parker rushed to his assistance, and was also attacked, receiving a deep wound over the heart before Pratt could draw his revolver. Four shots were fired all of which took effect. Teso lived but a few minutes.

H. JOHNSON PAINFULLY WOUNDED; MISTAKEN FOR A CHICKEN THIEF.

Son, Thinking Chicken Coop Was Being Raided Monday Evening Fired Revolver and Hit His Father.

WARNING CAME TOO LATE

Bullet Entered Hip and Caused Wound That Is Exceedingly Painful But Will Not Result Seriously—Son Broken Up Over Accident.

Mistaken for a chicken thief, Henry Johnson, aged 50, one of the best known residents of the section around Crossland Station, was painfully wounded in the hip when his son, Christian, fired a revolver in the gathering darkness Monday evening. Not until after he had fired did the lad realize that it was his own father he had shot.

It was about 7.30 Monday evening that Mr. Johnson went out to lock the coop for the night. He did not say anything about his intentions and Mrs. Johnson did not know he had left the house. A few minutes later Arthur, a younger son, started on the same mission.

Seing a shadow of a man at the coop, Arthur ran back to the house, screaming that a man was after the chickens. Christian, an older boy, picked up his revolver and started out. He, too, saw the form and opened fire. Mr. Johnson shouted a warning as the revolver flashed, and then fell to the ground in great pain. He was carried into the house by his sons and medical attention was summoned.

Young Christian Johnson is prostrated as a result of the accident, as, indeed, is the entire family. The Johnsons are very well known in this section. Mrs. Johnson is a niece of Mr. and Mrs. John Keck of town.

The temperature this morning was 76, unusually high for 8 A. M. at this time of the year. Yesterday the mercury soared into the eighties and at 6 P. M. was 83. The river remains stationary.

DANCER CONFESSES LOVE FOR MANUEL.

Denies, However, That He Gave Her Such Costly Presents as Reported.

NOT ASHAMED OF GREAT LOVE

Met Him Behind the Scenes 15 Months Ago and Two Became Infatuated at First Sight—Says Manuel Will Be Happier Without Crown.

Copyright 1910 by United Press Associations.

VIENNA, Oct. 6.—"I know no disgrace in being the mistress of a King but I consider it everlasting disgrace to advertise that relationship, glorified as it was by a love that even the court and conventionality could not throttle," declared "Uncrowned Queen" Deslys in an interview with a correspondent for the United Press at the Apollo theatre here.

The house was packed last night. The dancer wore the magnificent diamond sunburst, the gift of King Manuel.

"Yes," the actress continued, "I was his mistress, but I never made the fact public and remained silent on the subject. I never asked the papers to call me the "Uncrowned Queen of Portugal."

"We met 15 months ago in Paris and were introduced behind the scenes. It was love at first sight. I became his mistress and our love justified all.

"Manuel came repeatedly to Paris and in February summoned me to Lisbon. I danced for the Oporto fire victims. I did not live in the royal suite but stayed at a hotel. We were together constantly. The last time I saw the King was in Paris last August."

"You have been denounced in Europe and America as the cause of the King's downfall," she was told.

"That is not true," she replied. "The King made only small presents to me which even the poor could afford. My contract calls for $25,000 for three months. I believe my income is greater than the King's. I received a long letter from him this week expressing great fear over the prospects of seeing me in Paris at the end of October."

When told the King had escaped, she said "It is much better that he should abdicate. I know he will be happier if not a King."

An Action in Ejectment is on Trial

Special to The Courier.

UNIONTOWN, Oct 6—The action in ejection brought by Basil A. Brownfield against Basil B. Brownfield to recover possession of a lot 80 by 50 feet, in South Union township, was taken up at 9.30 this morning before Judge J Q. Van Swearingen in the large court room

The defense is represented by Attorneys H. T. Detwiler and E H Reppert, E. W Boyd and A. D. Boyd acting for the plaintiff. It is alleged that the defendant secured possession of the property through fraud, having taken the plaintiff down by a fence corner, back of a barn, while the latter was in a drunken condition, having been on a prolonged spree. This occurred during September, 1908

Attorney Boyd stated in opening they would show that the property would be of more benefit to the defendant than to its rightful owner, though its value was only $250, giving this as the reason why Basil B attempted to secure its possession.

Attorney Boyd offered in evidence a number of papers, deeds, etc, showing the manner in which Basil A came into possession of the tract of land, it being left to him by his father, Isaac A Brownfield.

It appears that in the early days an old fort was built on the property, and the defense is that Basil B bought the land for the purpose of restoring the ruins and preserving them He claims he agreed to pay $250 for the property of which he has paid $50, Since that time, it is claimed he has raised the buildings, built fences around the land, and put new roofs on the buildings

Judge Van Swearingen offered to give the parties time to compromise but the plaintiff refused

NATURE SPARES.

The Stricken Rose From Grief.

What a fortunate provision of nature it is, that deprives the rose of mental suffering; for how poignant would be its grief to discover, in the heights of its blooming glory, that a canker fed at its heart, and that its beauty and fragrance were doomed forever. Medicines Made From Roots and Herbs

In the good old fashioned days of our grandmothers they depended upon medicines made from the roots and herbs of the field to cure disease Lydia E Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, that standard remedy which is made from roots and herbs for woman's ills, had its origin in this way. For thirty years it has been redeeming its promises written on the label of every bottle by curing thousands of women of feminine ills It's a good honest medicine.

THE FIGURES IN DUNBAR TWP.

The Enrollment for the First Month 2,500 Pupils.

TEACHERS MEET OCTOBER 8

Will Be the First of the Monthly Conferences That Are To Be Held at Which Matters Pertaining to Their Work Will Be Discussed.

The first month of the Dunbar township schools closed Friday, Sept. 30th with a total enrollment of 2,540 pupils and a percent. of attendance of 94. The total attendance of the first month last year was 2,506 pupils, a gain of 34 this year.

All schools opened Monday, Sept. 6th with 74 teachers in charge, with a determination to make this, the present year, the greatest in the history of the Dunbar township schools. To do this is needed the earnest co-operation of every patron in the district. Patrons, the teachers need your help and request that so far as possible you see that your children attend regularly for only by so doing can you expect them to make the progress you desire. Visit the schools frequently, and thereby show to teachers and pupils that you are interested in the work of education. Do not wait for the annual Patrons' Day. In our schools, every day is a patrons' day and you will always receive a hearty welcome from teachers and pupils. We are glad to be able to report quite a number of visits by parents this month, also some 40 visits by Directors.

Teachers will meet Saturday, October 8th at 9 o'clock for the first of the monthly conferences. The primary teachers will discuss the subject of writing in the primary grades, intermediate and grammar school teachers will discuss arithmetic in their several grades.

The detailed report of the attendance by rooms is as follows: The first column indicating the enrollment, the second, the average daily attendance, and the third, the per cent of attendance:

PERRY FIRE COMPANY.

Is Striving to Make Up a Deficit of $75.00.

PERRYOPOLIS, Oct. 6.—(Special.) The volunteer fire company of town is striving to make up a deficit of about $75 on the fire fighting apparatus of the town and expect to make up the name on Thursday evening, October 6th, when "The Strollers" of New York City will perform at the High School auditorium. This is a high class company and already enough seats have been sold to cover all expenses and those buying tickets from now on will be contributing directly to the support of the fire department.

The fact that the town has voluntarily raised over $100 since last fall for which to purchase a substantial building, an excellent chemical fire engine, two strong and suitable carts, ten charges of chemicals, five substantial ladders, buckets, hose and other apparatus and today this apparatus is properly housed and ready for fire in a minute.

It is expected that all tax payers of town will patronize this musicale and comedy. Tickets can be purchased from Howard Adams, Dr. Kamerer, A. G. Gue, Dr. J. R. Martin or J. Alvin Byers.

The citizens and officers are proud of the equipment and anxious to have this little deficit made up. The officers are: President, J. Buel Snyder; Secretary, C .D. Davidson; Treasurer, Howard Adams; Vice President, Ira Blair; Fire Marshall, J. R. Martin.

WOULD SWITCH SENTIMENT

Bankers Advised to Work Against Radicalism.

Los Angeles, Oct. 6.—That bankers should try by broad and fair methods to turn public sentiment back toward conservatism from a radicalism, for which financiers themselves were blamed in part, is in substance the advice given to the American Bankers' association in an address by George M. Reynolds, Chicago banker.

Mr. Reynolds expressed the opinion that the public attitude now is unfair, especially in the matter of curtailment of profits, but he thought the banker, by reason of his connection as adviser to all classes of business men, could do much toward setting things right.

PENROSE SEES VICTORY

Handsome Plurality For G. O. P. in Election, Says Pennsy Senator.

New York, Oct. 6.—United States Senator Boies Penrose of Pennsylvania was discovered here by reporters, but he said he had not come to New York on account of politics.

Besides the Democrats and Republicans there are the Prohibitionists and the reformers, who call themselves the Keystone party. TONNAGE RECORD FOR COAL BROKEN.

Pittsburg Mines Prevent the Threatened Fuel Famine in the Northwest.

GREATEST YEAR IN HISTORY

Figures of Production and Shipments By Rail and Lake Are Astonishing According to Report That Has Just Been Made.

Pittsburg has prevented a coal famine in the Northwest this fall. The people of that district had the foresight to stock up early, with the result that there has been a steady stream of coal moving from this district, preventing serious congestion, which has always been a source of worry in the past.

Every coal operator in the Pittsburg district has shipped more coal to the lakes for the northwestern States during the present season than at any time previous. The railroad tonnage reports indicate that the lake lines will this year show an increase of from 30 to 40 per cent over 1909. The coal storage docks of the northwest, owned by the coal companies of Pittsburg report that the demand for coal from interior points has increased so rapidly that they can care for practically the entire shipment of coal as long as navigation lasts.

During the month of August, the officials of the Pittsburg Coal Company say they shipped 3,000 more cars of coal to the lakes for the northwest than for the same period of 1909. Shipments are expected to continue, unless ice interferes, up to the early part of December. With this plan in view, the belief in Pittsburg is that the coal supply of the northwest will prevent a fuel famine.

The strike of the miners in Illinois prevented that State sending its usual proportion to the north, but it is said that the shortage from that State is made up from the excessive shipments from Pittsburg. Not only has Pittsburg cared for this increased demand, but it has furnished a steadily increasing tonnage in its own field.

According to the report of the Department of Commerce and Labor, the shipment of coal from the lower lakes to the northwest was 2,591,000 tons in August alone, which was 20 per cent greater than for August, 1909. The total shipments of bituminous coal from the Lake Erie ports to the northwest, to the end of August, were 11,239,000 tons. This is said to be the best "eight months" record ever made.

Officials of the Carnegie Coal Company of Pittsburg said that two causes made it possible for Pittsburg to get such a large coal tonnage out. One was the miners strike in Illinois and the other the fact that railroads had plenty of cars. It is only in the past week or two that complaints of car shortage have come to the shippers of this district.

The Carnegie Coal Company received reports from its representatives in the Northwest that there is no reason for the coal famine at this time. It was expected at the beginning of the season as the Northwest population had indicated no intention of preparing for the winter early enough to help the shipments along. Since then the sentiment in the trade had shown decidedly in favor of an early stocking up. A shortage of miners in the Pittsburg field continued during the early summer, but so soon as miners who left the Irwin field found there was plenty of work in the Pittsburg district, they filled in the vacancies and are now working steadily.

COAL SHIPMENTS

On the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Show an Increase.

Shipments of bituminous coal over the line of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad continue to show increases, the tonnage carried being considerably more than July and also more than during August of last year. The tonnage carried amounted to 2,569,685 tons, against 2,213,279 tons in August, 1909, an increase of 356,406 tons, or 16.1 per cent.

For the two months of the fiscal year from July 1st the tonnage transported amounted to 4,976,179 tons, compared with 4,293,177 tons for the two months of the last year, an increase of 683,302.

ASH DUMPS BURNING

At Some of the Plants Along the Morgan Valley.

Several of the ash dumps of the works along the Mt. Pleasant branch that have not been accumulating for a long period have of late become treacherous on account of the ashes slowly burning. Should anybody try to walk over some of these dumps they would be precipitated into a miniature volcano and were there no immediate assistance it might prove a disastrous attempt.

The burning breeze dumps throw off a pungent smell owing to the sulphur and other carboniferous matter they contain.

THE LEGAL PHASES OF THE GAS QUESTION.

The citizens of Scottdale, Mount Pleasant and Uniontown will view with interest the course of the injunction proceedings pending in the Allegheny courts wherein the churches of Glenfield borough seek to prevent the local natural gas company from depriving them of free gas contrary to the duties and obligations of the company."

Just what the duties and obligations of the company are is not stated, but it is fair to presume that the gas company engaged as a partial compensation for its franchise rights within the borough to furnish the churches with free gas.

The Fayette County Gas Company does not deny certain similar engagements, nor contracts with Scottdale and Mount Pleasant agreeing that the maximum rate for gas to domestic consumers shall not exceed 25 cents per thousand; but in effect the company coolly says: Pay our demands or we will withdraw from your town and abandon our franchise.

Perhaps the Glenfield cases will shed some light on the right of the gas company to recede from its franchise contracts without reasonable cause. The failure of supply would be a reasonable cause, and proof that increased cost of production rendered increased charges necessary to operation at a fair profit would be another.

Is a natural gas company a public service corporation? Is it such a corporation as from its very nature owes the public "duties and obligations"? These questions may also arise. If so, their determination will set a light to the footsteps of the Fayette county sufferers now stumbling in the outer darkness.

Possibly if the aggrieved parties would enter suit against the gas company they would get more satisfaction from it than they derive from incessant grumblings mingled intermittantly with violent denunciation.

THE DECADENCE OF EUROPEAN ROYALTY.

The throne of the boy king of Portugal has fallen and the royalty of all Europe is keenly alive to the dangers of the rising tide of republicanism.

And well it may be.

Whatever may be said of the faults and failures of republican government, mankind has decided that it is the most reasonable and just and humane form of government. Royalty is a relic of the past. In the very nature of advancing civilization it is doomed to the discard.

A constitutional monarchy is the least offensive form of royalty, and it is not without its good features. It has in fact become nothing more nor less than a hereditary Presidency with fewer powers, and it is a tribute to the broadening tendency of the times that it is practically the only form of monarchy existing. Barring Russia, China, Turkey and Persia, there are no longer any autocratic rulers. Of these all but China have made concessions to republican government, and they will be forced to make more.

"Government of the people, by the people and for the people" has come to stay.

THE GOOD WORK OF THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

The Chamber of Commerce is reported as having another industry on its negotiable list. The name and character of the industry is not divulged, following the very wise plan of the chamber not to announce its chickens before they are hatched.

We repeat what we have stated before, that the Chamber of Commerce is doing great work for Greater Connellsville. The names of the directors ought to go down in the history of the town as its Builders.

But we hope we will be pardoned if we respectfully suggest that this most valuable and public-spirited organization avoid party entanglements with local government and local affairs and confine their efforts to the upbuilding of industrial Connellsville.

One purpose well served is better than many reforms ill advanced.

THE WESTERN MARYLAND WEST SIDE TERMINAL.

The Western Maryland West Side terminal is still a matter of doubt, though the atmosphere is gradually clearing up, and a definite statement of the company's route will doubtless soon be issued. If it shall put the minds of West Side property owners and real estate agents at rest concerning the route of the Western Maryland lines into Connellsville it will have served at least one excellent purpose.

Of one thing only we are quite certain, and that is the fact that the Western Maryland terminal will be at Connellsville and that shops must be erected here or hereabouts. They should be somewhere within easy reach of the terminal, and all things being equal their natural and proper location is Connellsville. This is a matter to which the Chamber of Commerce should give prompt and earnest attention.

The Western Maryland shops should not be allowed to get away from Connellsville through any neglect of opportunity.

Madame Dressmaker Trusts—Now, that's my all-American design for a proper hobble skirt for you. This style will be worn for years to come.

PHYSICIANS SHOULD REPORT.

The complaint of the Health Officer that physicians do not report contagious and infectious diseases promptly and fully is rather surprising.

The physician is necessarily a man presumably familiar with the rules of the health department, one intelligent enough to realize the importance of keeping a record of such diseases and of using every precaution against their possible spread.

But if any physician shall so far forget his duty to the public as to neglect these wise provisions of the health laws, he should be summarily brought to a realizing sense of his offending, and if the Health Officer will but read the health ordinances he will find that there is a way to compel recalcitrant physicians to make proper reports to the health department at all times.

THE STUPID INGRATES OF THE COAL MINES.

The prosecution of a couple of Connellsville region miners for tearing down danger signals in the mines is another indication of the vigilant efforts of the mine officials to enforce the laws for the protection of those who persistently defy them.

Such prosecutions ought never to be necessary. The miner of average intelligence ought to know that these laws and the signals set in pursuance thereof are designed primarily to protect them and ought consequently to be strictly observed instead of being defied and insulted by their first beneficiaries.

No punishment is too severe for persons who neglect the precautions provided for their safety and who deliberately endanger the lives of others besides their own.

They are stupid ingrates.

The announcement that the Greensburg mining strike was settled referred only to the settlement of some surety of the peace cases. The strike is far from being settled. They are still shooting and dynamiting people in that region. The officers charged with the preservation of the peace ought to get busy and bring all outlaws of whatever station to justice. The spectacle of premeditated murder persistently practised is not edifying to the patriotic citizen who believes in protecting the rights of individuals.

Dillinger of the Whites district board who were arrested on Monday charged with election irregularities were before Justice J. B. Small at Greensburg yesterday. They were anxious to be tried to the fullest extent but the justice continued the case a week.

House-Campbell.

The wedding of Nellie M., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Campbell of Scottdale, to A. W. House of Uniontown, was solemnized in St. John the Baptist's R. C. Church here this morning, by Very Rev. M. A. Lambing, the pastor, at 8 o'clock. Miss Nora Campbell, a sister, was the bridesmaid and T. F. Hahn best man. Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents. The young couple are well known and have many friends. The bride has been employed for sometime as a stenographer in the general offices of the Union Supply Company at Uniontown, while Mr. House, who is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles House of near Greensburg, is employed by the H. C. Frick Coke Company in their Continental No. 1 office at Uniontown. They will be "at home" after October 20 on South Mt. Vernon avenue, Uniontown.

Boys and Girls Choir.

The Presbyterian Church was once more packed last evening with an enthusiastic audience to hear Evangelists Davis and Mills. Evangelist Davis sprung a surprise while a hymn was being sung by asking all of the boys and girls under 16 years of age to come to the front. A large number responded and the evangelist turned to Musical Director Mills saying: "I propose to have these boys and girls for my choir and I want to show the people that they can sing as well as your choir." He then had them sing a chorus several times and the audience applauded with enthusiasm. The evangelists inject so much wholesome pleasantry into the meeting that even the most hardened non-church goers seem to enjoy them and attend night after night. The evangelist preached from the text: "Take ye away the stone," in the course of his remarks saying: "God is able to work miracles in transforming Scottdale when cut on stones and removed and one of these is indifference. The greatest hindrances to the cause of Christianity are not infidels of the Ingersoll-Paine type. They are people who say that they believe in God and yet act as if there was no God. There is something wrong with a person that can show enthusiasm over a ball game and tries to live a Christian life as though he were enduring it. A person without Christ is lost and if you fully realized what it means to be lost you would wake up and go to work. The stone of inconsistency needs to be removed if you expect God to work in this community. If you are living wrong you will hinder others from becoming Christians."

As the evangelist closed a short earnest prayer at the close of his sermon, he shouted: "Meeting's over," and started down the aisle to shake hands with the people while the choir sang.

Thoms Is Coming.

Through Rev. E. G. Sawyer of Youngwood, formerly of town, a meeting has been arranged for G. F. Thoms a missionary in Heuhuetenango, Guatamela, Central America. Mr. Thoms used to live in Altoona and was frequently in Scottdale where he taught a Bible class and has many friends. The meeting will be held under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. in the United Brethren church on Saturday evening at 8 o'clock. A special feature of the meeting will be the singing of a male quartette, lead by Evangelist F. A. Mills.

First Aid Meeting.

The First Aid to the Injured work which was prosecuted with so much benefit among the miners and millworkers and those engaged in other dangerous occupations last season will be resumed at the Y. M. C. A. on Saturday evening at 7.30. Dr. O. C. Engle will be the speaker.

AFTER RAILOADS.

Consolidated Coal Company Wants Refund on Coast Shipments.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—A questio of interest to every coal company operating in Western Pennsylvania has been brought to the attention o the Interstate Commerce Commissio through a complaint filed by the Consolidated Coal Company, operating i Maryland and West Virginia, against the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway, the Union Pacific railroad and the Southern Pacific railroad.

The Consolidated Coal Company al leges in its complaint just filed that on June 15, 1909, it shipped from its mines in Maryland by way of Keyser, W. Va., 49,680 pounds of soft coal, destined to Paso Robles, California. The Baltimore & Ohio railroad, it is alleged, was notified of the shipment, but not having on hand at the time any car of less capacity than 60,000 pounds, supplied a car of this capacity for the shipment with the agreement that the charge should be the same as if the coal had been shipped in a car of minimum capacity of 40,000 pounds. The allegation avers that the shipper was charged for the freight west of Chicago on a basis of a car of minimum capacity of 60,000 pounds instead of 40,000 pounds as had been agreed, making an excess in the freight charges on the shipment of $20.60.

The complaint alleges that another shipment was made under similar circumstances on July 16, 1910, to San Jose, Cal., the shipment being 43,300 pounds and shipped in a car of 60,000 pounds minimum capacity because no other car was available for use at that time. West of Chicago the rate on a car of 60,000 capacity was charged on this shipment also, making an alleged excess in freight charges of $76.14.

The Consolidated Coal Company not only asks reparation for excess on the freight charges but that an order be issued requiring railroad companies to desist from making such charges on full capacity of cars when smaller cars are requisitioned but can not be had.

The decision in this case will probably affect every mining company in the State and will therefore be awaited with much interest.

Scarcity of Seating Room in Connellsville Township is Noticeable.

The first month of the Connellsville township school term closed on Monday, Oct. 3rd. The work done by both teachers and pupils during the month promises that this will be one of the most successful terms we have had for some time. Throughout the entire township the enrollment is slightly larger than it was last year. In several of the schools seating room can scarcely be provided for the pupils. The attendance was good in most all schools, and it is hoped that the parents will assist in keeping it thus during the term. Mr. Miller of South Connellsville, who was recently appointed truant officer, will in the future see that the chronic absentees are kept in regular attendance.

Fall in Hops Makes Cancelled Order Costly

Special to The Courier.

UNIONTOWN, Oct. 6.—A Magnus, Sons & Company filed an affidavit of claim against the Johnson Brewing Company, by their attorneys Lee Smith and Chad Johns. They claim the brewery people are indebted to them for $130.01, incurred in a rather peculiar manner.

On July 3, 1907, the defendants bought 2 bales of hops. The plaintiffs immediately purchased the required amount, at market price. December 4th the order was cancelled. In the meantime hops of the grade ordered had decreased in price, so that when they were disposed of on January 3, 1908, a loss of $130.04 was sustained, it is alleged.

French Method of Developing the Bust

Mdme. DuBarrie Explains How the Bust May Be Developed 2 to 8 Inches in 30 Days.

"I am explaining for the first time to the ladies of America," says Madame Du Barrie, "the French method of developing the bust. It is much more effective, the results appear much more quickly, the breasts become more firm, plump and symmetrical, the method is more simple, the effects are lasting and altogether beyond comparison with the results produced here.

"You know the French people have the development of the bust and form down to a fine point.

"By this French method, the breasts may be developed from 2 to 8 inches in 30 days. This applies to women of almost any age, from young girls to elderly matrons, whether the bust is absolutely, not developed at all, or has grown weak and flabby, and hangs, no matter from what cause.

"I will only be too glad to tell any woman who is interested what this simple French method is, if she will enclose a 2 cent stamp to repay for the postage. I will send an illustrated booklet in a plain sealed wrapper that will explain it all."

We suggest to our lady readers that they write to Madame DuBarrie for particulars of this remarkable French method, enclosing 2 cents in stamps for the illustrated booklet and address it to Mdme. DuBarrie, Suite 2081, Quinlan Building, Chicago, Ill.

SETH BROWN HOW OTHERS REGARD HIM

Mr. Brown was selected to deliver the address on "A Good Newspaper" before the National Editorial Association, although he did not know a single man on the committee. His appointment was received solely upon his reputation and the character of the work he was doing.

When Mr. Arthur Sheldon wanted a man to rewrite the advertising department of his course of salesmanship he put the matter up to some of the most important advertising men in the country, and Mr. Brown was selected for the work.

Just recently the publisher of a six-volume set of books on advertising soon to be issued selected Mr. Brown to write the introductory article.

The press clipping bureaus show that there is more of Mr. Brown's writing quoted than any other writer on advertising.

Mr. Brown contributed to the editorial columns of Printers Ink for several years.

KING REPORTED ABOARD VESSEL.

Said to Have Taken Refuge on English Cruiser.

ALLOWED TO LEAVE IN SAFETY

It Is Reported Young Portuguese Monarch First Boarded Brazilian Cruiser, But Afterward Was Taken on English War Vessel.

London, Oct. 6.—Although details are meager and conflicting, dispatches received from authentic sources make it clear that the revolution in Portugal has been successful and a republican form of government, under the presidency of Theophilo Braga, has been proclaimed.

King Manuel, according to the most circumstantial account, took refuge, first, with the tacit consent of the revolutionary leaders, on board the Brazilian warship Sao Paulo, which was lying in the harbor.

King on British Cruiser.

He remained there but a short time and, feeling unsafe, he took a motor boat to Cascnes, about a dozen miles distant, and remained there until the arrival of the British cruiser New Castle.

He went aboard and sailed for a destination variously stated to be Gibraltar, San Sebastian and England.

All accounts agree that the revolt began early Tuesday morning. It was a premature outbreak, caused by the murder of Professor Bomburda by an army officer.

The navy was represented by two warships in the harbor, and led by Admiral Reis (retired) these ships opened hostilities.

A large section of the troops cooperated with the warships.

Loyal Troops Fought Desperately.

A considerable force remained loyal to the king and fought desperately against the insurgents for many hours.

About 8,000 citizens joined in the revolutionary attack and the casualties were severe. There is no reliable information on this point.

The palace was bombarded by the warships with deadly effect, but only for ten minutes, when the green and red flag was hoisted.

Order Now Prevails.

The leaders of the revolutionary forces repressed attacks on property and unnecessary excesses and the latest dispatches say that good order now prevails, although it appears to have been one of the quickest, cleanest and most business-like revolutions of modern times.

It is necessary to point out that it is by no means certain that the revolt is a permanent success. The provinces are more loyal than Lisbon and they have not yet been heard from. The same doubt exists as to the attitude of the regiments in the provinces.

Marching on Lisbon.

It is stated from Madrid that some, at least, of the provincial garrisons, including that of Oporto, are marching to Lisbon to support the monarchy.

The only provincial center where the insurgent movement is reported to be active is Oporto and the accounts of the situation there are contradictory. One declares that fighting occurred there similar to that in the capital, while another says that order was not broken.

It seems that the struggle in Lisbon was finally decided by the wholesale desertion of Royalist soldiery to the revolutionists. If this is correct it may well foreshadow the ultimate course of any provincial troops still adhering to the monarchy.

Hard Row to Hoe.

Even if a republic is permanently established it will be no guarantee of peace and prosperity. Portugal has not been the victim of kingcraft, but of general corruption, peculation and maladministration. If the republicans have the will and power to purge Portuguese institutions, replace the existing spoils system by a genuine representative government, establish clean finance, they may regenerate the country and bring it out of the slough of poverty and backwardness in which it is weltering, but there is no present assurance that a weak republic rent by faction will not take the place of the weak, unstable monarchial regime.

WOUNDED FILL HOSPITALS.

Duke of Oporto Led Loyal Portugese Troops.

London, Oct. 6.—A dispatch to the Daily Mail from Lisbon dated Oct. 5 and sent by train to Carcavello, whence it was telegraphed, says:

"Lisbon was awakened at dawn Tuesday by the roar of artillery and found the town in a state of siege. A revolt had broken out.

"Several regiments of infantry, cavalry and artillery killed their officers who resisted and marched into the town, signaling to the warships in the river, which also revolted, hoisting the republican flag. The same flag was hoisted at the Almada fort and at Barreiro, where a general strike was proclaimed.

"Instruments of war were concentrated in the Avenida de Liberta, where a large fair was being held and the theaters and tents were turned into a military camp. There the republican flag was hoisted and the place was protected by artillery. The loyal troops marched against the insurgents, engaging in incessant combats from dawn until midnight. There were large numbers killed or wounded on both sides.

"The hospitals are full. The Red Cross has been hoisted on all of them, and on motor cars, which are constantly conveying the wounded to them.

"The artillery ashore caused great destruction. It was answered by the warships, which bombarded the Necessidade palace. The Duke of Oporto, the king's uncle, headed the mountain artillery, which was driven back by the insurgents.

"Everything is paralyzed, commerce, traffic and the telegraphs, telephones and railways. The latter have been cut by the insurgents."

Pittsburg Woman Adopts Unique Method of Tripping Burglar.

Pittsburg, Oct. 6.—Mrs. A. N. Conroy took her own peculiar means to punish a thief whom she discovered at work upstairs in her home in this city. Mrs. Conroy upturned a small chair in the darkened hall, calculating that the man would stumble over it.

Then she stood and waited, armed with a heavy iron mop. As she planned, the man came downstairs and stumbled over the barricade. Then she rained blow after blow on his head and back. Without defending himself, the man fled.

At Peoria on Wednesday he is to be the guest of the Knights of Columbus and will deliver an important address.

It was at the request of Senator Beveridge of Indiana that Mr. Roosevelt decided to travel through Indiana. He will stump the state as far as he is able for the senator. The main speech will be made at Indianapolis on Thursday. The party is due back in New York on Friday, Oct. 14.

CANAL OPEN IN 1915.

Col. Goethals Tells of Progress Being Made at Panama.

New York, Oct. 6.—Lieutenant Colonel George W. Goethals, chairman of the Panama canal commission and chief engineer of the Panama canal, has arrived for a brief visit. He has come for the marriage of his son, which is to take place at Watertown, N. Y., next Tuesday.

Colonel Goethals says that if he has anything to do about it the canal will surely be opened on Jan. 1, 1915. He feels pretty sure that the actual work of construction will have been completed considerably before that time, but there will be lots of tunneling to do and a lot of machinery to try out, because he doesn't want anything to break down after the canal has been officially declared open.

"We are pushing the concrete work in the locks very rapidly," said Colonel Goethals, "and the excavation is going along now more rapidly than at any time during a wet season. We have some 3,000,000 yards to dig out in the Chagres river section north of the Culebra cut and we are working at that when the floods will let us."

Fall May Kill Bride-to-be.

Napoleon, O., Oct. 6.—While leaving a dressmaker's house, where her wedding gown was being made, Dorothy Reinke, aged seventeen, with her mother, Mrs. Charles Reinke, and sister, Florence, aged three, fell twenty-five feet down a stairway and received probable fatal injuries. Mrs. Reinke stumbled and caught hold of her daughters to prevent her falling, carrying them down with her.

HOKE SMITH.

Elected Governor of Georgia by Democrats.

HOKE SMITH ELECTED

Defeats J. M. Brown For Governor of Georgia.

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 6.—Hoke Smith has been elected to serve a second term as governor of Georgia.

Incomplete returns indicate that Governor Joseph M. Brown, who defeated Governor Smith two years ago, and whose name, after he had been defeated for the nomination in the primary, was placed before the voters as an independent candidate, received a majority of the votes in but two of the 146 counties. All regular Democratic nominees for state and county offices were elected. Three constitutional amendments apparently were adopted by large majorities.

HUGHES STEPS OUT TODAY

Horace White Is New Governor of New York State.

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 6.—Lieutenant Governor Horace White of Syracuse will succeed to the governorship of the state this afternoon when Governor Hughes will resign and leave for Washington to assume his new duties as an associate justice of the United States supreme court.

Governor White will be sworn into office by Secretary of State Koenig and will assume the reins of government. Governor Hughes will leave for Washington by a late train from Albany.

Killed by a Fall.

Bluefield, W. Va., Oct. 6.—While walking on a bridge near Worth, W. Va., Laura Sheets, aged twenty-two, lost her footing and was precipitated eighteen feet on a rock pile, death resulting instantly. She was to have been married soon.

GOVERNMENT IS ORGANIZED.

The Portugese Revolutionists Name a Full Cabinet.

PROCLAIM BRAGA PRESIDENT

Little Lawlessness Reported After Revolutionists Take Lisbon—Banks Guarded by Sailors—People Parade Streets Singing.

Lisbon, Oct. 6.—A provisional republican government has been formed as follows:

Theophilo Braga, president.

Senhor Machano, minister of foreign affairs.

Senhor Costa, minister of justice.

Senhor Telles, minister of finance.

Senhor Barretto, minister of war.

Senhor Antonio Gomes, minister of public works.

Senhor Alonida, minister of the interior.

Senhor Amaro Gomes, minister of marine.

Senhor Leno, civil governor of Lisbon.

Loud Cheers For Troops.

The loyalist troops went over to the insurgents at 8 o'clock yesterday morning. They quit Dom Pedro square, where they were posted, and returned to their barracks amid the "bravos" of the populace and cries of "Long live the republic."

Senhor Leno, the new civil governor, addressed an immense crowd from a balcony of the town hall. He told them that he intrusted the maintenance of order to the soldiers, adding:

"Respect all public and private property and the lives of all persons whoever they may be. The republic is generous and magnanimous."

Banks Guarded.

The people cheered loud and long. Up to noon no property was attacked. The banks were guarded by sailors. The Spanish minister, wearing his uniform, visited the republican leaders at the town hall and was loudly cheered by the people.

The bombardment by the warships did much damage, especially to the government offices and the Necessidades palace. The tower of the palace church is down. Many people, mostly onlookers or passers by, were killed or wounded in the lower town by the bombardment. The number of deaths is estimated at about 100, while the wounded number many more.

The Turning Point.

During the earlier fighting, which lasted many hours, and went on for four or five hours in total darkness, the revolutionists were some times checked and retired from their positions in the Avenida in Liberta, but they made a detour in the direction of Mon Santo, returning upon the center of the city. It was apparently the success of this movement that induced the loyalists to abandon the defense.

The republican flag is now displayed throughout the city on all public buildings, the Bank of Portugal and many business houses and residences. People are parading the streets with arms, singing revolutionary songs.

CHURCHES GO TO COURT

Seek Free Supply of Natural Gas For Edifices.

Pittsburg, Oct. 6.—The fight for free gas for the churches in Ohio valley boroughs was carried to the courts when the churches of Glenfield borough filed a bill in equity in common pleas court against the Manufacturers' Light and Heat company.

The congregations ask for an injunction restraining the company from continuing to deprive the churches of natural gas free of cost for purposes of light and heat in compliance with the duties and obligations of the company. They also ask to be awarded damages for the alleged injuries sustained by reason of the refusal of the company to furnish gas free of cost since Sept. 1.

CHAPTER XVI.

FIRE!

MR. MILTON turned away and was drawing out a chair for himself near one upon which a seedy, bearded stranger had placed a small leather hand bag when suddenly the whole restaurant seemed alive with dry, crackling explosions, and in the same instant the electric lamps went out. The room, a moment ago brilliantly lighted, was black as a vault save for a glimmer from the street that shone through the window. Then, as every one jumped up, overturning chairs or breaking glasses in their hurry and the shrieks of the Italian women mingled with the strange crackling sounds, there came from somewhere at the back a loud detonation, followed by a hoarse roaring like a blast furnace. Men cried out in amazed alarm, and the dark room lit up ominously with a crimson glare that turned the curtain through which it leaked the color of blood.

In rushed Black Dick and his assistant, with Blinker, who had been busy in the kitchen, and all three shouted wildly, "Fire, fire!"

The restaurant was in a state of chaos. A long jet of flame sweeping out from the kitchen and across the narrow passage caught the curtain in the doorway, up which little serpents of fire began to crawl. Every woman was screaming now in a panic of fear whipped to horror by the red darkness and the crackling explosions which snapped and spluttered on every side. The excitable Italians chattered and struggled with one another in the dark, the new Polish waiter ran here and there like a frightened chicken that sees the ax, the two negroes were almost in convulsions, and Tony Kidd called vainly on the Hungarian brothers and De Rocheverte for help in bringing order out of confusion.

At the time of the first explosion Loveland had been quietly setting a plate of fried chicken before Tony, and as the journalist leaped from his seat the two young men were close together.

"Short circuiting; escape from a fused gas pipe!" Loveland yelled through the noise.

"Yes, that's it!" the reporter shouted back mechanically as if to a friend.

Then for a few seconds Tony was overwhelmed by a wild rush of frightened women. In the red light that streamed through the burning curtain he saw a crowd fighting to reach the window and the closed front door of the restaurant.

Upon his incredulous eyes flashed a horrid tableau of De Rocheverte throwing off Elinor Coolidge, who clung to him, crying, "Save me, save me!" As the Frenchman blindly flung her away and dashed toward the door the girl would have fallen on her knees, to be trampled underfoot by the two Hungarians, had not Loveland pushed the men violently aside and caught Elinor in his arms.

"Keep her—keep all the ladies in this corner out of the crush!" he cried to Tony. "I'm going to turn off the gas at the main." Then he gave Elinor, half fainting, to Tony Kidd, who fiercely called Mrs. Milton, Miss Turner and Miss Wood by name. The sound of the two calm voices in the midst of shouts, smashing glass, falling chairs and foreign exclamations rallied the women's courage. As Tony held Elinor the three others passed near him, deserted by the foreigners of their party, and in the bloodshot blaze all saw Loveland's tall figure apparently plunge into the flame. He made a dash through the doorway, his arms thrown across his eyes to shield them from the fire, and ten seconds later the loud roaring ceased as suddenly as it had begun. The cracklings had ceased, too, for the short circuiting was over, and the stream of gas burnt itself out an instant after Loveland seized the handle of the main. But the curtain still blazed; the stairway in the passage, the door frames in the kitchen and restaurant were on fire, and the panic raged as wildly as ever among the fallen chairs and tables.

The door handle had been broken by Leo Cohen as he fiercely disputed with Milton the right to get out first, and none could now escape that way, although men battered the panels and strove to break them in. Some one had smashed a hole in the thick plate glass window big enough to create a dangerous draft, but not large enough to give a means of retreat for any of the men and women who, with cut and bleeding hands, struggled to squeeze through the jagged opening.

One hand badly burned, face and hair singed, Loveland was back in a minute from his errand at the gas main. He had snatched up a huge kettle of water from the stove and dashed it on to the stairs, quenching the small flames which had begun to curl and writhe. Then, tearing down the curtain, he trampled out the fire, and as the flames died into shooting sparks and feebly puffing smoke he urged Tony to bring the ladies that way. "Upstairs—we'll get them upstairs out of the crowd!" he shouted, but instantly the whole throng would have turned to stream in that direction had not Tony Kidd kept the way clear by making an obstacle of his own broad shoulders.

He got a fierce blow or two, but held the pass until the four ladies of his party and Isidora had reached shelter with Loveland.

The women safe, Tony tore off his coat and began beating down the fiery snakes which crawled up the door frame toward the ceiling. Loveland meanwhile, having refuged the four ladies with Isidora, hurried back to stand by Tony Kidd. Three minutes later two big men in blue sent the door crashing off its hinges into the restaurant, and by the time the fire engines swept clanging and snorting into the street the flames were stilled and Alexander had found a few candles to light up the smoky darkness.

The whole drama in one act had played itself out from beginning to end in less than ten minutes, but it had come close to tragedy, as none realized more fully than the two whom it had very strangely brought together—Lord Loveland and Tony Kidd.

No one was killed or seriously injured, fortunately for Alexander the Great's popularity. Many hands and faces were cut with window glass, two or three women had bruises or sprained wrists, and the Italian bride and groom were objects for compassion.

SAW LOVELAND'S TALL FIGURE APPARENTLY PLUNGE INTO THE FLAME.

Loveland and Tony Kidd had saved the situation. Nobody else seemed to have accomplished anything deserving praise, but when calm followed storm De Rocheverte, Milton, his friend Mason and the two Hungarians vied with one another in volubly explaining each act and failure to act. They had wanted to make a way out for the ladies; that was why they had tried to get to the door, but they had been caught and overwhelmed in the crowd. They all talked fast and eagerly, almost convincingly, but the ladies, pale and shattered, listened without answering. And when they thanked Tony Kidd for "saving them from being burned alive" they were careful neither to contradict nor assent when he assured them that it was "our brave pretender who did everything."

As for Loveland, he was no longer to be seen. Tony looked in vain for his comrade in battle.

"Funny thing," Val thought as he looked at his burned left hand and his singed coat—"funny thing! I suppose I behaved fairly decently because I had to do it and there was no other way. But I've fancied myself a lot more before this for a grand slam at bridge or a right and left shot at a couple of birds."

There was no need to prove his courage further by reappearing in the restaurant. If he went back it would look as if he were bidding for compliments from his late tormentors, and heaven knew that he wanted nothing of the sort. He wanted only to be let alone. Dick was binding up his injured hand when the sound of a voice behind his back made him turn quickly.

"See here," said Tony Kidd, "I've been looking for you, because I want to tell you something. Whatever else you may or may not be, you're a man anyhow."

As he delivered himself of this speech Tony's pleasant, clever face lost the quizzical expression it was wont to wear and looked very attractive in its earnestness.

"Thank you," answered Loveland rather stiffly. Then, melting as his blue eyes and Tony's brown ones held each other, he added, smiling, "So are you."

"If I've made things any worse for you I'm sorry," went on Tony. "It's all been in the way of business, you know."

Milton's words to the young journalist had cleared the mystery of the crowd who had glanced up from their newspapers to stare at the English waiter and gone back to their newspapers again. Tony's veiled allusion brought no surprise to Loveland, therefore, and he answered without heat. "It doesn't matter," he said quietly in a tired voice, which made good natured Tony wince.

"You're in pain, aren't you?" he asked.

"Oh, nothing to speak of," said Val. "Burned my hand and wrist a little; that's all."

"It was a narrow shave," said Tony—"by Jove, a 'shave' literally, for you've pretty well made a clearance of hair on one side of your head."

"I must look like a convict," returned Loveland, and, considering everything, it struck Tony Kidd as odd that the Englishman should make that particular remark about himself.

"You've been having a mighty hard time of it since—or—since I saw you last," the journalist observed.

"It has been an experience," said Loveland.

"I'd like to show my appreciation of the way you've acted tonight," said Tony. "Is there anything I can do for you?"

"Thank you very much, but I think there's nothing you can do," Loveland answered.

Tony knew of one thing that he could do and had already decided to do it—to turn the tide of public opinion as far as possible by a graphic description of the fire at Alexander's in tomorrow morning's Light. But, after all, that would not accomplish much if any material good. A wave of sympathy would only send more curiosity seekers to Alexander's, and Tony's keen eyes had seen through Loveland's mask of indifference how he writhed under his punishment.

"Say, you can't stay on here," the American explained impulsively. "It's a dog's life, and whatever you are, whatever you've been, you're too much of a gentleman by breeding and education to stand it. You'll have to quit, and perhaps I could think of some way out if you"—

"I'll thank you not to try and take my waiter away from me, Mr. Kidd," broke in Alexander the Great, speaking so suddenly behind the two young men that both started "like guilty things upon a fearful summons."

"This isn't the right place for him, Alexander, and you know it," retorted Tony.

"It's the place he's engaged to stay in until he leaves the country," Alexander persisted. "And I mean to hold him to his word or know the reason why. If Gordon leaves me without a week's notice I'll make him sorry for himself."

"He saved your place tonight and Lord knows how many lives," said Tony.

"Dat ain't got nothin' to do with the case," insisted Alexander.

"Don't bother, thanks," Loveland said hastily to Tony. "Things can't be worse than they've been tonight. Perhaps they'll be better. I shall try to fight it out here till I can see my way."

"Pay my way," he might have said, but he did not wish to bring up the question of money between himself and Tony Kidd.

"It's bad enough for me to have my place upset," went on Alexander, "without having my people enticed to leave me in de lurch. 'Tain't a friendly act, Mr. Kidd. I shall be days makin' up my loss, what wid t'ings busted and burnt, and I shall need all the help I can get to put the restaurant in shape again."

Tony turned impatiently from the man's grumbling. "Well, if you won't let me do anything for you, you won't," he said to Loveland. "All the same, I shan't forget, and the time may come. Now I must be off and write my story."

He put out a hand, and Val responded with his unbandaged one.

Danced in Court.

An unusual scene was once witnessed in a French law court, the civil tribunal at Nantes. The proprietor of a local theater had engaged a young lady dancer, whose performances at rehearsals did not come up to his expectations. He therefore would not let her appear, and the fair dancer took action against him for breach of contract. The defendant alleged that she had not even learned the first steps of her art, and, here being a plain issue, the judge determined to decide for himself. A space was accordingly forthwith cleared on the floor of the court, and in those unusual surroundings the young lady duly went through her steps and pirouettings. In the result the judge felt justified in certifying that she was quite an expert dancer and decided the case in her favor. Henceforth she advertised herself as the only dancer in the country with a legal certificate of proficiency.—London Tit-Bits.

I.—Fresh Air In the Home, Its Low Cost and High Value

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

Dr. EUGENE L. FISK, Author of "Home Course in Health Culture."

THE old Greek philosophers regarded air as a simple and unchangeable element like gold, silver, etc., and the problem of how air sustains life was certainly "Greek" to them.

This ignorance of the composition of air persisted until the latter part of the eighteenth century, when Priestley discovered that air is a mixture of gases, one of which, oxygen, is necessary to life. By experiment on animals he demonstrated that in passing through the lungs air parts with some of its oxygen to the blood and takes from the blood a poisonous gas—carbon dioxide. Priestley, of course, was not aware that air may also bring from the lungs and throat other organic impurities and the microbes of disease. As ignorance of these facts existed for thousands of years it is not strange that our ancestors builded their homes and ordered their lives entirely without regard to the value of fresh air. Even now, however, the old habits persist to some extent, and stuffy, overheated, ill ventilated rooms may be found in every community.

If fresh air were a high priced commodity there would be some excuse for not breathing it. But, except in the case of overcrowded tenement districts, pure air is within the reach of rich and poor alike, and neglect to obtain it can only arise from ignorance or indifference to bodily health. I suppose people may still be found who dread to breathe the "night air," who delight in "nice, warm," heavily curtained rooms, where the sunlight cannot fade the furniture and the winter air is rigidly excluded. I would invite the attention of such people to a few simple and easily demonstrated facts.

ONE GAS BURNER USES AS MUCH OXYGEN AS FOUR AND A HALF MEN.

Fresh Air Facts.

In the first place, answering the possible query, "What has all this talk about fresh air done for humanity?" I would say that it has lowered the death rate from consumption over 40 per cent in the last thirty years. In the same period it has reduced the death rate among people under thirty years of age about 30 per cent. It has done so much that cautious, conservative scientific men are looking forward to a complete eradication of consumption and other communicable diseases and their banishment to the limbo where the "black death" and smallpox have been driven.

Pure air is composed of, approximately, seventy-nine parts nitrogen and twenty-one parts oxygen, a trace of carbon dioxide, vapor of water and minute quantities of other elements which have no known influence on the body. After air is expelled from the lungs it contains, as Priestley first demonstrated, an increased amount of carbon dioxide and a reduced amount of oxygen.

It has been estimated that each person requires 3,000 cubic feet of fresh air per hour if the proportion of carbon dioxide is to be kept below 6 parts in 10,000—the pure air limit.

It must not be thought that carbon dioxide in excess of that quantity is particularly harmful. If unmingled with other impurities it may be present in the proportion of 50 to 100 parts per 10,000 without endangering life. As usually present in dwelling rooms, schoolrooms, factories, etc., however, it is an index of the amount of other impurities exhaled from the lungs and skin.

Open country air has been found to contain only 3 parts per 10,000 carbon dioxide, while the air of a crowded schoolroom may contain twenty times that amount and be correspondingly vitiated by organic impurities, microbes and what has been well named the "sewage" of the lungs and skin.

Renewing Air in Rooms.

Even where a liberal air space is allotted to each individual it is necessary that the air of a room be completely changed at least once every hour. In schools and factories where there is limited air space per capita arrangements are often made for changing the air from five to seven times per hour.

One gas burner consumes as much oxygen as four and one-half men.

I have considered thus far the air poisons and deleterious matters derived from the human body. Other sources of contamination also exist and are a menace to health. I have mentioned vapor of water as an ingredient of pure air. This vapor is quite necessary to health, and its absence occasions a peculiar dryness of the skin and a stuffiness in the head which is often the first stage of a common cold. The cold is directly caused by microbes, but the system is laid open to their attacks by the conditions above described.

The absence of vapor of water is usually the result of faulty heating methods. A hot air furnace or stove will supply unduly dry air unless some device is used for supplying moisture. Such devices are ordinarily attached to furnaces in the form of a small reservoir opening into the air supply. Neglect to keep this reservoir filled with water is a serious mistake and may be responsible for much discomfort and illness. Where no such device is a part of the heating apparatus a vessel of water should be placed upon the stove or at some point where the hot air will pass over it and take up the moisture; otherwise it will take the moisture from the body.

The temperature in the house should not be allowed to rise above 68 degrees. Neglect of this precaution is frequently responsible for undue susceptibility to colds.

Some Ventilation Points.

In considering the practical problem of ventilation the following items are of most importance:

The most efficient means of ventilating, especially in the winter time, is the heating system. The hot air furnace, which insures a constant supply of fresh outside air, is the best system if the air is supplied direct to each room and the precautions taken to keep the air moist which I have already outlined. While this system does not provide for releasing bad air, this usually escapes through the cracks of doors and windows. It is desirable, however, to have open fireplaces wherever possible to insure the rapid escape of vitiated air. Where stoves are employed the air is not changed very rapidly, and the dangers of contamination from coal gas necessitate some special means of ventilation. An excellent measure is to raise the lower sash of a window about four inches and close the opening with an accurately fitting board. This will allow the air to come in between the two sashes without causing a draft. Two holes may be cut in this board and small boxes opening toward the ceiling placed over them.

As frequently as possible living rooms should be thoroughly ventilated by opening all windows and doors and rapidly and completely changing the air.

Where the hot water or steam system is used for heating the above precautions are also advisable, as such systems do not provide any means of ventilation.

Ventilating at Night.

The problem of ventilating at night is much simpler, but in all these matters common sense and caution must be used. In the winter time precautions should be taken against drafts, but a thorough ventilation of the sleeping rooms should be rigidly maintained regardless of the condition of the weather. It is usually possible to have free ventilation without draft by properly placing the bed. The ideal method, however, is to have a sleeping porch or balcony, where one may sleep practically in the open. Such a porch can easily be adjusted for protection from inclement weather.

Another method is the window tent. This is very much like an ordinary window awning, but is placed on the inside of the window, over the upper part of the sleeper's body, completely shutting him off from the air of the room. This method has the advantage of insuring the constant breathing of outside air without drafts and at the same time keeping the temperature of the room fairly warm.

Not more than one person should sleep in a small bedroom. If possible children should sleep alone and each child have a room to itself.

Wait a Bit.

Guest—Look here. How long am I going to have to wait for that half portion of duck I ordered? Waiter—Till somebody orders the other half. We can't go out and kill half a duck.—Toledo Blade.

THE STAGE AND THE PLAYERS.

MISS MABEL GILMORE

One of the Twelve Most Beautiful Women in the World.

At Solsson This Week.

Monday ..... The Soul Kiss
Saturday ..... Cozy Corner Girls

The second musical offering of the week will be presented at the Solsson this evening when "The Soul Kiss" makes its second appearance in Connellsville. "The Soul Kiss" was written originally as a vehicle for the famous Adele Gonee, the dancer. Her successor in the role is said to be one of the best dancers on the stage today.

There is some decidedly catchy music in "The Soul Kiss" and this year's company is said to be not only large but capable.

* * *

Real burlesque is promised Saturday matinee and night when the "Cozy Corner Girls" make their appearance for the first time in Connellsville. The "Cozy Corner Girls" are said to be a western wheel show and have a good reputation for fun making. This is the first offering of Manager Fred Robbins along the lines of high class burlesque.

* * *

Harry Hopping of the King Stock Company is in Connellsville this week making arrangements for a cordial reception for that troupe here next week. The King Stock Company has a repertoire of high class comedies and melodramas and expects to make a good impression.

Mr. Hopping has spent the week arranging details for the show, which lands here on Monday to open its week's engagement. Last evening he and Treasurer Sam Fell of the Solsson put some decorative touches on the lobby of the theatre which gives it a holiday air. If the stock company fails to do big business it will not be the fault of the advance man. The company has scored quite a "hit" in Fairmont all this week.

"The Soul Kiss" Tonight.

The attraction, music, novelties, terpsichorean divertisements and pictorial scenes of "The Soul Kiss," which comes to the Solsson Theatre tonight, are wonderful in their wealth, and combined with the interpretation to be given by an excellent company of sixty people, makes this big musical comedy the event of the current theatrical season. The search for a soul kiss that comes from the soul, which occasions many amusing and clever comedy situations, and offers many excellent opportunities for musical novelties, is the thread that runs throughout the clever book provided by Harry B. Smith, author of "The Follies" of 1908, '09, and '10. The Music was written by Maurice Levi and is tuneful, catchy and enduring.

"The Cozy Corner Girls."

Seldom if ever has modern burlesque been presented on such an elaborate and completed scale as will be found with the "Cozy Corner Girls" company which is to be the attraction at the Solsson theatre, matinee and night, Saturday, Oct. 8. There are nearly 50 people with the organization which includes an unusually large beauty chorus, singing soubrettes and real comedians. The performance opens with a brisk and breezy satire, "Room 6, or Fun in the Hotel," and introduces the entire mammoth company in a succession of song and fun of recent issue. The olio which follows, consists of Hichy W. Craig and Billy Spencer, Yale and Orloff, singing girls, MacRae and Levering, comedians par excellence; America's foremost eccentric comedians, Manning and Allen and Mardo and Hunter.

The closing burlesque, "Broadway to Atlantic City" is claimed to be a record breaker of modern burlesque presented in a most lavish manner, with dazzling costumes and a magnificent scenic display. The famous $20,000 beauties, Adonis and Venus, are introduced and also a beauty chorus will be seen in several big song numbers.

Hancock Opening Saturday Night.

Findlay, O., Oct. 6.—Republicans will open the campaign in Hancock county with Warren G. Harding, U. G. Denman and R. E. Dunlap as speakers Saturday night, Oct. 15.

Aguilola's Remains Reach Cuba.

Havana, Oct. 5.—The remains of General Francisco Aguilola, the hero of the ten years' war in Cuba, who died in 1877 and was buried in New York, has arrived here from Tampa on the Cuban revenue cutter Yara. They were received with the greatest honors.

Sore Throat Wisdom

If every mother could realize the danger that lurks behind every case of sore throat, she wouldn't rest until she had effected a cure every time a child has it.

Your family physician will verify the statement that it is a positive fact that every child with sore throat is in immediate danger of contracting Croup, Quinsy, Tonsilitis or Diphtheria, and is not removed from that danger until the throat is cured. Think of it!

Liniments or outward application of medicines do not and cannot cure the ailment, though they may offer temporary relief. Neither can you cure sore throat with a cough syrup or a cold cure.

To cure, you must get at the seat of the disease, removing the cause. Nothing does that so quickly, safely and surely as TONSILINE. A single dose of TONSILINE taken upon the first appearance of sore throat may save long weeks of sickness, great expense, worry, even death. TONSILINE is the stitch in time.

Use a little sore throat wisdom and buy a bottle of TONSILINE today. You may need it tomorrow.

TONSILINE is the standard sore throat remedy—best known and most effective and most used. Look for the long necked fellow on the bottle when you go to the drug store to get it. 25 cents and 50 cents. Hospital Size $1.00. All Druggists.

Culture Test Shows Conclusively Greek on Liner Germania Died of Cholera—Uncle Sam's Physicians May Hold Steerage Passengers.

Washington, Oct. 6.—Announcement was made at the treasury department that an examination of a culture taken from the body of the Greek who was taken from the steamship Germania to Swinbourne island the latter part of September disclosed that the man had died of cholera.

Dr. Anderson of the marine hospital service pronounced the test conclusive.

The marine hospital officials are seriously considering enforcing a five-day period of observation of all steerage passengers landing in New York from cholera infected ports. Surgeon General Wyman said:

Utmost Vigilance Exercised.

"We have practically doubled our inspectors at the cholera ports aboard and the utmost vigilance is being exercised to see that no suspects take ships for the United States. The inspection is most thorough."

Figures received by the state department show that there have been 100,000 cases of cholera in the infected districts of Russia alone and 35,000 deaths there in the last six months.

Sant Anna's Passengers Land.

New York, Oct. 6.—The cabin passengers of the Faber liner Sant Anna were permitted to land only after Health Officer Doty had decided that the death at sea of cholera on Sept. 25, of a steerage passenger had not affected the cabin passengers.

Dr. Doty congratulated Captain Pavey, the skipper of the Sant Anna, on his care of the cabin passengers. The water supplied to them was boiled or thoroughly filtered and all steerage passengers were kept isolated so that communication between steerage and cabin was practically impossible.

Fireman on Moltke Affected.

The patient aboard the Moltke was not a steerage passenger, as originally reported, but a fireman. Pending a bacteriological examination the cabin passengers of the Moltke were permitted to leave the ship.

Dr. Walter Wyman, head of the United States marine hospital service, went to Quarantine to confer with Dr. Doty on the cholera situation, the country generally being affected by the admission of the disease in any of the ports of Uncle Sam. Dr. Wyman approved the work of Dr. Doty. He said the sanitary condition of the country and the nearness of winter made it improbable that cholera would have any chance of withstanding the application of the present scientific methods of knocking it out.

Mulford Nearly Burned to Death.

Buford, Miss., Oct. 6.—Ambushed on his way home, then bound to a tree and burned probably fatally, was the experience of Jeffries Mulford. His lower limbs are horribly burned. There is slight chance of his recovery. Mulford was married recently. It is believed that an old family quarrel led to the attack on him.

JOHN A. DIX CHOSEN TO LEAD DEMOCRATS IN NEW YORK STATE.

ROCHESTER, Oct. 6.—John A. Dix, nominated by the Democrats for Governor of New York, made his first appearance in politics two years ago as a candidate for Lieutenant governor. He was defeated by Horace White, the present incumbent. Mr. Dix was born in Glenn Falls, N. Y., just 50 years ago. Here also two years later Charles Evans Hughes, whom Mr. Dix wishes to succeed as Governor, was born. Raised in a family of wealth and position, Mr. Dix received a splendid education at the Glen Falls Academy and at Cornell University, from which he was graduated in 1882. In 1889 he married Miss Gertrude Allen Thompson, with whose father he later became associated in the lumber business. Mr. Dix is a distant cousin of General John A. Dix, once Governor of New York and United States Secretary of the Treasury. The Democratic nominee is still interested in lumber operations in Herkimer, in President of the Iroquois Pulp & Paper Company at Thomson; associated with the Moose River Lumber Company at McKeever, in Vice President of the Blandy Paper Company, National Bank of Schuylerville, Standard Wall Paper Company, Hudson Falls and Adirondack Trust Company at Saratoga Springs and Treasurer of the American Wood Board Company at Thomson. Although possessing large private means, in his unnecessary fight for lieutenant governor two years ago Mr. Dix expended only $3,083.50 for campaign expenses, of which, he certified, all except about $1,000 went to the Democratic State Committee. Mr. Dix has been active in the affairs of the Democratic party in the State not more than ten years. In 1906, convinced that the Democratic party had made a mistake in its nomination for Governor, Mr. Dix refused to support the nominee.

SHICKLER PRESIDENT.

Elected Head of the McKean Coal Company at Tarentum.

Following the close of a big exchange deal, reported rather indefinitely some time ago, in which transaction George H. Shickler traded several apartment houses and a number of dwellings for coal land, owned by the McKean Coal Company, with works near Tarentum, Mr. Shickler has been elected President of the company, succeeding J. N. Stewart of Tarentum, and Carl Shickler, Mr. Shickler's son, succeeds to the secretary and treasurership of the company, vice James C. Barnett, resigned.

This means the virtual passing from the Western Pennsylvania building field one of its largest individual speculative operators, Mr. Shickler stating that he intends henceforth to devote all his time to the coal business. The coal company of which he is now the owner employes 20 men, but improvements in the mines and plant will be made, which will greatly increase its output, making the employment of many more men necessary.

This Sale of Petticoats Beginning Today

Is the Second Important Event in a Series of Sales this Fall.

The reasons for the extraordinary price reduction on such nice petticoats are briefly stated here. Particularly speaking of the silk petticoat an agreement was made with a manufacturer to take a quantity, (not less than a hundred) when he had them ready for delivery. This happened more than half a yea rago. In making these excellent garments, bolt ends of taffeta silks were used. Month after month this maker dropped into the Wright-Metzler bin the petticoats as per agreement. Now they are here, ready for sale and no better ones at near double the price ever found their way to Connellsville. The point par excellence is: by not rushing matters and forcing extra duties upon the maker, these petticoats go to you a trifle less than wholesale price.

Black Taffeta Petticoats--Special $3.48

We value them at $5 because that is the price asked by the average store. Quality and workmanship considered these garments are far ahead (in proportion to the price) of a special lot at $ and some cents of a month or so ago. Those garments were not long in the selling. These are expected to sell even quicker.

Percaline dust ruffle, dust proof seams, 12 inch silk flounce, four rows neat tucks and with a rich black lustre.

98c for $1.50 Petticoats

Black, rustling petticoat fabrics fashioned into garments of beauty and durability. Perfectly made seams properly proportioned, neatly tucked and shirred flounces 14 inches deep. You can buy these petticoats today for a little less than stores buying in dozen lot quantities.

Embroidery Flounce Styles 1.48

52c is the amount saved, if you purchase within the next few days. This extra special garment has a 16-inch embroidered, and shirred flounce, with tailored bands. The fabric is more durable than any similar petticoat material and we particularly emphasize the beautiful finish. Value $2.00.

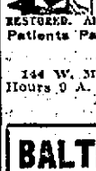

$5 for $8 and $8.50 Colored Silk Petticoats.

These are from our own stock and scarcely better taffetas go into petticoats at $10 elsewhere. Since the revival of colors again this offer will be quickly noted by a large number of good dressers. These garments all have a particularly heavy taffeta body and underruffles in most cases of the same material. All lengths. Colors, navy, green, grey, lavender, salmon and red. During this sale other petticoats, including genuine heatherbloom, will be displayed. Prices the lowest considered with the qualities shown which are the best.

Fashionable Millinery

A Collection of Smart New Models, Worth up to $6.00, at $3.98

Our Hats at $5.00

How designers of skill can work out the richest Paris ideas in simpler materials without sacrifice of true artistic beauty or meaning, that's one of the first lessons of this great display of $5 Millinery. Hundreds of new styles, every one up-to-date, sparkling, distinctive; any one of which the best dressed women in Connellsville might wear with pleasure. Every one new and authentic, both in shape and trimmings; many as truly Parisian in type as the exquisite foreign models from which our own artists have drawn inspiration.

HATS FOR EVERY HOUR; nature outside is not more harmonious in her tones than their color blendings.

Plenty of piquant HELMETS and BELL TURBANS; plenty of larger draped Turbans; dainty, light-weight TOQUES and BONNETS of simple, appealing charm; MUSHROOMS, both pronounced and modified, but never too extreme to become inartistic; stately PICTURE HATS for the woman of queenly head and impressive coiffure; strictly TAILORED HATS of well-bred reserve; and graceful medium-sized affairs, suitable for morning, afternoon or evening.

COMPLETE AUTUMN SHOWING.—Could we usher in October more auspiciously than by this typical display of artistic up-to-date Millinery at $5.00.
